Growing-up and living in South Africa is an everyday struggle for a bigger part of the inhabitants. About 40 percent of South Africa's inhabitants do not have a constant employment. One out of ten lives below the poverty line, which means having less than 1 $ per day.

Almost 60 percent of children's mortality (under the age of 5 years) is due to HIV/ Aids. It is hard for people to succeed in everyday life when struggling so hard.

Therefore our South-African action week tries to encourage the self-confidence and community sprit of the inhabitants of Limpopo. Today we arranged a youth games event with football, volleyball and

With this event we try to support a local get-together and the self-confidence of every single participant.
